

U. S. FLIES FRENCH TROOPS TO INDOCHINA

Wilson Disagrees with Charges by Sen. McCarthy

About Town And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

I KNOW YOU have read a lot about Eldorado's city hall remodeling project but I bet you haven't read this about it.

What's about to come is a feature story written by Charles W. Branum. Branum is minister of the Church of Christ in Eldorado and also writes for the Daily Journal there.

He has written a story which tells of the phase of the project which dealt with the painting of the city jail department.

Here goes the story by Rev. Branum:

"Sing Sing was never like this," might well be the soliloquy of future inmates in the city jail here, as they gaze demurely through the bars and feast their eyes upon the "new look" in color-schemes for coolers. For the walls of the local bastille have been painted a-lap-lap-lap-lap—in other words baby blue.

It's really hard to account for our celestial colored calabosses without pointing out that it was included on the agenda of a communitywide work project undertaken by the citizens of Eldorado in connection with their community development program, designated as Operation Bootstrap. The renovation and remodeling of the city hall was the main objective; so the townspeople, including men, women and teenagers rolled up their sleeves and went to work. What's more, they have just about completed a task regarded by several prophets of gloom as impossible.

Since the jail is housed in the city hall, it seemed expedient that some improvements be made there too, by way of prepping up the place. But the azure walls came quite by accident. Emmett Horn, Draper Jr., Eldorado businessman and husband of the chairman of the Beautification Committee, were wielders of the brush. Not having, however, the latest centrifugal mechanisms available for the purpose of blending paints, they had to resort to an oak lathe and that circular motion created by the agile activity of bulging biceps. Or to quote Mr. Horn, "It liked to killed us."

That's putting it mildly to the reaction of most people who walk into our jail and view the resplendent Draper and Horn mixing it up a bit. Neither will say what color they were trying for, but it is very apparent a "Lost Week End" could easily terminate with a Blue Monday sure enough.

Both of these amateur paint slingers were agast, though, when I suggested a border of pink elephants.

"Nothin' doin'" they exploded as one man. "Look at the ceiling." I lifted my eyes upward and saw the ceiling covered with a dazzling silver paint. "Anyone placed behind bars in this jail," I was told, "can look for the silver lining."

Somewhat that bespeaks the spirit behind the program in which the whole town is engaged. With the closing of the coal mines in the area, many families had to move to larger communities to find work. Conditions looked rather dark for awhile. But now a dauntless citizenry is determined that by a frank self-analysis and "blood, sweat and tears" the community of Eldorado might truly look for the silver lining.

So the first town to take advantage of the Southern Illinois University sponsored program, can add another first—a baby blue jail.

Says Assistant Secretary is Competent Man

Senator Claims
Assistant Sec'y
Masterminded Report

WASHINGTON (UP) — Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson today flatly disagreed with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's charges of "misconduct" leveled against Assistant Defense Secretary H. Struve Hensel.

Wilson described Hensel at a news conference as a "competent, honest man." He said that if he did not believe that, Hensel "would not be in his present assignment."

Asked whether he agreed with McCarthy's charges of "misconduct and law violations," Wilson said, "No."

Asked whether Hensel masterminded the Army's report on McCarthy, as the Wisconsin Republican charged, Wilson said "Of course not."

McCarthy made the surprise charges Tuesday. Televised hearings in the McCarthy-Army feud started before the Senate investigating Subcommittee Thursday.

McCarthy's charges posed another question for the subcommittee to decide—should they be formally considered during the hearing?

McCarthy said Hensel drew up the Army's case against him in an effort to head off an investigation for "misconduct and possible law violation." Hensel retorted that McCarthy was "lying" and challenged him to repeat the charges without senatorial immunity. McCarthy has deferred doing this so far.

Wilson said he became aware of McCarthy's inquiry into Hensel's affairs a couple of weeks ago and asked Hensel about it.

Asked whether he was satisfied with Hensel's explanation, Wilson answered "As I understand it, I was."

No Good For Morale
The secretary said that the whole Army-McCarthy row has not "done any good" to morale in the defense setup. He said one result was to complicate his problem of getting the Army to take jobs. They are reluctant, he said, "if they are going to get worked over unfairly."

McCarthy's charges against Hensel revolved around Hensel's connection with a ship's supply firm now in the process of liquidation.

McCarthy charged Hensel was the "dominant force" in organizing the firm while he was a Navy procurement officer in World War II.

In an interview on the NBC television program "Today," Hensel said McCarthy's charge was a di-

Russia Claims Deserted Clerk Is a Criminal

SYDNEY, Australia, (UP)—The Soviet embassy today told the Australian government today to return Vladimir Petrov, an embassy staff member who deserted the Russians and asked Australia for asylum last week.

The embassy asked the Australian external affairs department to detain Petrov as a criminal and hand him back to the Russians.

Earlier today, the embassy issued a statement saying Petrov "misappropriated by forgery" a large sum of money while a member of its staff.

On Tuesday, Australian authorities disarmed two Russian guards and gave political asylum to Petrov's wife, Evkoviya. She had been dragged aboard a Russian-bound plane screaming, "Save me!"

Mrs. Petrov was removed from the plane at Darwin.

The Soviet ambassador to Australia, N. Generalov, demanded the return of Mrs. Petrov and apologies for the way her guards were treated.

Prime Minister R. G. Menzies immediately branded the Russians "criminal" charge as "completely contradictory" to their initial statement Petrov had been kidnapped.

Menzies said such charges had been expected and noted they followed the pattern in the case of Russian code clerk Igor Gouzenko in a similar spy network case in Canada.

Menzies rejected Soviet charges that the two couriers "escorting" Mrs. Petrov back to Russia were manhandled at Darwin. Menzies said "the whole incident was handled with restraint and meticulous regard to the rules of international conduct."

Most Northern Illinois Cities to Switch to Daylight Savings Time

SPRINGFIELD (UP) — At least 595 Illinois cities and villages will switch to daylight savings time Sunday, the Illinois Municipal League reported today.

The figure is a little more than half the total number of municipalities in the state. It is slightly above last year.

Most of the cities in the northern two-thirds of Illinois will make the annual springtime change to "fast" time. The major exceptions are Rock Island, Moline and Galesburg, all railroad centers.

Virtually all towns in the Little Egypt area of southern Illinois will stick to standard time through the summer.

Stevenson Quits Hospital, Hits GOP Statements

CHICAGO (UP)—A playful Adlai E. Stevenson, supported on the arms of two nurses, left Passavant hospital with the remark that what America needs is "a little touch of lockjaw" among the Republicans.

Stevenson had undergone an operation to remove a kidney stone. He went to his Libertyville, Ill., home to rest after leaving the hospital Tuesday.

He was not strong enough to attend a $100-a-plate Democratic dinner Tuesday night, in which Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) criticized the GOP.

Kennedy said recent remarks on Indochina by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Vice President Richard M. Nixon could be taken to mean "we are about to enter the jungle and do battle with the tiger."

Stevenson, his sense of humor unimpaired by his illness, also had good-natured criticism of Republican quote makers.

To Campaign for Douglas
"I am bewildered by the procession of attitudes of alarm to which the American people are being exposed," he said.

"President Eisenhower tells us our fears are groundless."

"Then Vice President Nixon on the following day talks of troops to Indochina."

"Defense Secretary Wilson talks of J. Robert Oppenheimer, the father of our atomic security, as though he were a defaulting bank clerk," he said.

He suggested Republican lockjaw might bring "relief from conflicting statements."

Dapper and smiling, Stevenson said he would do everything he could to take to the polls for the reelection this fall of Douglas.

"In fact," he said, "I already started in this hospital."

Douglas, who is opposed by Republican Joseph T. Meek in his bid for reelection, said that Democrats believe "in the lobby of the individual man and not of the special interests. We believe in his inalienable right to represent himself and to petition his Congress for assistance and progress."

The statement was possibly an attack on Meek, who is president of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations and who has represented his group as a lobbyist in the State Legislature.

"Operation Bootstrap" and prospects for its successful completion were discussed last night at the Kiwanis meeting at the Masonic temple by John David Upchurch, mayor of Eldorado.

The program for civic improvement at Eldorado combined with a drive for industry which will move into the town has been underway there since Dec. 7. Labor groups and civic leaders under took the project under the direction of the Community Service department of Southern Illinois university and Richard Posten of SIU.

Weekly meetings have been held at the high school and hundreds of townspeople have participated in the study groups at these meetings. Committees have been set up to study the many phases of the civic betterment campaign and as many as 2,000 registered for these various committees. Reports of these committees are being turned in and each Monday night a committee report is studied and discussed.

A brochure is now being prepared which includes the findings of these committees and the things that have been done and which

Nixon, Dulles Emphasize U. S. Will Welcome Negotiated Peace

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States made it plain to the world today that it will welcome a negotiated peace in Indochina as long as it is "honorable" and is not a surrender to Red China.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon declared this emphatically in a Cincinnati, Ohio, speech Tuesday night. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said about the same thing a few hours earlier.

It was learned the two statements were aimed at European fears — fanned by Soviet propaganda — that the United States is determined to block any kind of negotiated settlement on Indochina at next week's momentous Geneva conference.

Oppose Any Surrender
Foreign diplomats here welcomed the conciliatory words. They were not unduly optimistic, however, about the chances of getting a settlement agreeable to both the United States and the Communists.

Nixon declared that Dulles would "stand in opposition to any settlement which means surrender in Indochina" at Geneva. He warned that Indochina's loss could shift the world balance of power so that "the Kremlin would think it is time for a world war."

The administration's goal, said the vice president, is to try to hold Indochina without committing U. S. troops, "if we can." He said the policy now being developed offers the best chance for doing this.

As he left for Europe and the Geneva meeting, Dulles said this country would seek a peace in Indochina "on honorable terms" but he bluntly charged the Communists with stepping up their "reckless" aggression.

Says Weakness Leads To War
Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), chairman of the foreign relations committee, said in an interview today that he feels "there are good prospects for getting somewhere" at Geneva. He also was "optimistic" about the chances for allied unity.

In his speech Tuesday night, Nixon said the administration's policy now is to be "firm, consistent, and courageous" since "vacillation and weakness lead to war."

He charged that the Truman administration's foreign policy failed by not emphasizing Asia enough, by not recognizing the Communists' civil war technique of aggression, and by trying to make the United States strong everywhere.

Barcus-Kindred, which has the contract to buy the bonds for the Harrisburg water improvement project, has told the city its legal counsel has advised the company to buy only $51,000 of bonds now for the city to purchase lake land. Around $69,000 was anticipated.

Armed Intervention Would Be 'All-Out', No Korea, Rep. Short Says

JACKSON, Miss. (UP) — Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said if armed intervention becomes necessary in Indochina it will be all-out—not "another Korea."

"The people in charge would not compel our boys to fight with their hands tied and their feet shackled, but it would strike at the heart of the enemy," Short told the Mississippi Economic Council Tuesday night.

Parnell Thomas Loses N. Jersey Election Bid

NEWARK, N. J. (UP) — Former Rep. J. Parnell Thomas received a crushing defeat in his bid to regain the seat in Congress that he vacated when he was convicted of federal payroll padding in 1949.

Near-final returns in the nation's second congressional primary of 1954 showed early today that Thomas lost the Republican nomination in New Jersey's 7th District by an 8-1 margin. He was defeated by the incumbent, William B. Widnall, who replaced him in Congress in 1949.

With nearly all election districts reported, the count was 34,974 votes for Widnall to 4,473 for Thomas.

Voters in the primary nominated candidates for one Senate and 14 House seats and for the most part, approved legalized bingo games and raffles for charity.

The voting for legalized gambling was on a local option basis. Most of the larger cities, including Newark, Jersey City, Camden and Atlantic City approved the referendum by a wide margin. Many smaller communities defeated it, apparently because of stiff opposition by the New Jersey Council of Churches, a Protestant group.

Ran Without Party Support
There were five Democratic and three Republican contests in the state's 14 districts. All incumbents were renominated.

In the most wide open contest, former state Assemblyman Fred E. Shephard, a staunch supporter of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, won a close seven-way race for the Republican nomination in the 6th District, which the Democrats captured last November after 21 years of GOP control.

Shephard defeated his nearest competitor, Francis V. Lowden, 8,895 to 8,841. Guy Gabrielson Jr., son of the former GOP National Chairman, ran third.

Thomas, a former chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, ran without support of the Republican Party. He endorsed the Red-hunting methods of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy during the pre-primary campaigning and said a vote for Thomas would signify approval of the junior senator from Wisconsin.

Wilson said at a news conference that he plans to leave around May 11 to take "a first hand look." He did not say what countries he will visit but did rule out the possibility he might go to Indochina.

He said Van Fleet, former 8th Army commander in Korea, will leave May 1 as President Eisenhower's ambassador to survey "our military assistance programs" in both Korea and Formosa.

The secretary confirmed an announcement made earlier in Wiesbaden, Germany, that the U. S. Air Force is transporting French Union troops from Paris to Indochina. Asked if this might be regarded as a step toward further U. S. involvement in the Indochinese struggle against Communist aggression, Wilson said "No."

"It means we have intervened in that war," Burdick told a reporter. "I was afraid we would do that all along. They might just as well say we are in the war now."

Rep. Paul W. Shafer (R-Mich.), a member of the House Armed Services Committee, pictured the move however as no different than earlier steps such as the loan of American equipment and technicians.

Direct Airlift From France, North Africa

8,500 Miles is Longest Military Troop
Flight in History

PARIS (UP) — United States Air Force planes are ferrying French Union troops to Indochina in a gigantic 8,500-mile airlift direct from France and North Africa, it was revealed officially today.

It was the longest military airlift in history.

First troops to go were more than 600 crack French paratroop commandos rushed from France to aid the hard-pressed defenders of the surrounded Dien Bien Phu garrison.

The commandos were members of the French 7th Colonial Battalion based at Quimper, France. They marched aboard U. S. Air Force C124 Globemasters at Orly Airport outside Paris Tuesday and were scheduled to land in Indochina Thursday.

A U. S. Air Force spokesman at Wiesbaden, Germany, disclosed American planes picked up other French Union forces in North Africa Tuesday. They, too, were destined for the Indochina battle.

No Step Toward Involvement
"The North African transport was not very large," he said, adding that further ferrying flights from North Africa were unlikely. Informed sources said the United States threw the air bridge nearly halfway around the world after Gen. Henri E. Navarre reported from the Indochina battlefield that he urgently needed infantry and particularly paratroopers if he is to hold besieged Dien Bien Phu.

It reflected American readiness to support France to the maximum in her swaying battle with the Reds in Indochina.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson said the fact that the U. S. Air Force is transporting French troops should not be considered as a step toward further involvement in the war.

The latest American aid coincided with arrival in Indochina of 20 speedy Corsair ground support fighter planes to assist the embattled and air-weakened French.

Wilson and Gen.
Van Fleet to Go to Far East

WASHINGTON (UP) — Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson disclosed today that he and Gen. James A. Van Fleet will go on separate military missions to the Far East next month.

Wilson said at a news conference that he plans to leave around May 11 to take "a first hand look." He did not say what countries he will visit but did rule out the possibility he might go to Indochina.

He said Van Fleet, former 8th Army commander in Korea, will leave May 1 as President Eisenhower's ambassador to survey "our military assistance programs" in both Korea and Formosa.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Nixon Is Getting Ike Build-Up
For 1956; Vice President Spoke With Authority Re U.
S. Troops For Indo-China; National Security Council Decided To Educate Public Re Indo-China War.

WASHINGTON. — The international and political furor kicked up by Vice President Nixon's speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors has now subsided, leaving two main points very clear.

1. Dicky Nixon looms more and more definitely as the man Eisenhower has picked to succeed him in 1956.

2. There is no question whatsoever that the Eisenhower administration contemplates the use of armed force in Indo-China if necessary. Despite a modifying statement by the State Department following Nixon's speech, both the use of American ground troops and small atomic bombs have been under discussion.

DEGREE IN ORATORY

The Nixon speech before the editors was not only a masterpiece;
it was calculated to win him recognition from a powerful group of opinion-makers. Even Democratic editors who didn't like Nixon came away admitting that the college degree he took in public speaking was paying dividends.
Jim Bassett, Nixon's old public-relations man, now pro for the GOP National committee, purred as he listened.

Nixon spoke for one hour without reading a manuscript and scarcely looking at his notes. His delivery had force, earnestness and a grasp of his subject. He was not partisan. The first half hour was devoted to a disarming exposition of the problems of Southeast Asia, interlarded with a pleasurable variety of personal "I was there" observations.

For instance, he told about the difficulty of getting along with cantankerous but courageous President Syngman Rhee in Korea.
Then in almost the same breath he quoted a British general who was asked what was needed most in Indo-China.

"Nothing would stand us in such good stead," said the general, "as another Syngman Rhee."

JUNGLE PROBLEMS
The latter part of Nixon's talk was devoted to the difficulties faced in Indo-China, the political problems of the French Laniel government which could easily be overthrown because of Indo-China; the great problem of creating a spiritual leadership among the native peoples; and the U. S. alternative policy of appeasing Red China by admitting its Communist government to a seat on the United Nations.

Someone has to grit his teeth and face up to things, Nixon warned. It would be more expedient to compromise by giving Red China a seat on the UN, but we must adhere to principle. The administration has a duty to the higher interests of the nation, even if unpopular. It is necessary to take definite action despite the handicaps. American policy cannot be bogged down by uninformed public opinion on one hand or reluctant allies on the other. We may have to go it alone in Indo-China even though unpopular. We must hold the line at any cost regardless of political repercussions.

Note — General reaction among editors was that the vice president did a brilliant job and enhanced himself with the newspaper profession, but that the American public was a long way from being ready to send troops to Indo-China.
NO TRIAL BALLOON

Some editors figured the Nixon fireside chat was a mere trial balloon sent up by the administration's No. 2 man, so that Eisenhower himself, if necessary, could deny it later. This writer deduces differently for the following reasons:

1. Ike has repeatedly, deliberately relied on Nixon to speak for him, no later than the reply to Adlai Stevenson. He has also let Nixon carry the ball as negotiator with Joe McCarthy, as the pacifier on Capitol Hill, and as the all-round political handyman of the administration.

This began partly because Ike gets both bored and tired while Dick is an eager beaver; partly because Ike doesn't understand politics and Dicky loves politics; partly because Ike hates political chores and the vice presidency is a job where time hangs heavily on one's hands. Subbing for the President began as an accident, but has now become a habit — a habit likely to be recognized when the Republicans start looking for Ike's successor in 1956.

B. The plan to stand firm in Indo-China, with U. S. forces if necessary, was drawn by the National Security Council to which Ike now delegates major decisions on foreign policy. Its Indo-China decision has now become the hard-and-fixed policy of the Eisenhower administration.

As reported by this column April 8, eight days before the Nixon speech: "The current education campaign to prepare the American people for war in Indo-China was preceded by a special study by the National Security Council has been under discussion. They would replace French metropolitan troops, thus relieving the political furor in Paris where it's demanded that French troops come home. . . . U. S. admirals propose sending two or more airplane carriers." (The carriers are now off the Indo-China coast.)

CLOSE TO WAR
Again on April 6, ten days before the Nixon speech, this column reported: "The White House has made careful but pointed overtures to Democratic leaders to get their support in case the Eisenhower administration becomes milita-ily involved in the jungles of Indo-China."

Again on April 12, it was reported: "How near the United States has been to full-scale intervention, even war in Indo-China, was emphasized at a secret meeting between Secretary of State Dulles and Adm. Arthur Radford with top congressional leaders of both political parties. . . . They proposed two moves which startled Republican congressmen as much as Democrats. . . . Send airplane carriers from the Philippines; also long-range bombers based on Manila. . . . Second, a joint resolution by Congress giving the President blanket authority to do anything he deemed advisable. . . ."

Incidentally, the Dulles-Radford meeting with congressional leaders took place while the President was week-ending at Camp David, Md., while the Nixon speech took place when he was in Augusta, which some editors interpreted as meaning feelers were being made which Ike could deny later. That, however, was not the case.

The proposals for possible war in Indo-China are deadly serious and were discussed behind the scenes in Washington well before Richard the Lion-Hearted, as he is sometimes referred to around the White House, conveyed this warning to editors.

Army Tests Germ Warfare At Utah Site

DUGWAY, Utah — America's defenses against germ warfare, poison gases and radiological weapons are being tested in a desolate area of western Utah larger than the state of Rhode Island.

The stakes in the tests are high.
And the Army Chemical Corps, operator of the Dugway Proving Ground, knows it.

The huge test site, 80 miles west of Salt Lake City on the famed Bonneville salt flats, is used for many top secret experiments. Details of activities there are secret.

But in a limited tour of the base with Col. Donald D. Bode, its new commanding officer, it was apparent that consideration is being given to any possible toxic agent an enemy might use in attacking this country.

The chemical corps confirms that Dugway has been the site of careful tests of defense against the deadly "GB," or nerve gas, as well as other military gases.

Tests also have been made here on older gases such as tear gas, mustard gas, lewisite, phosgene and chlorine. None of the gases is manufactured here. They are only brought here for testing.

Strict Army Silence
On the biological and radiological aspects of the proving ground, the Army maintains a strict silence.

The hundreds of civilian and military workers at Dugway base confine their activities solely to working with instruments and other laboratory techniques. None of them is ever deliberately exposed to any gas. In fact, Bode says, 50 per cent of their effort is spent on insuring safety of the workers.

Some of the toxic devices tested at Dugway are dropped from aircraft. Others are fired from artillery pieces, mortars and rocket launchers. In some cases, a "sta-tie" test is arranged, with the material unleashed by remote control at a fixed spot.

"We'll test anything that an enemy agent could use or think up as an attack on man, animals or crops in America," says Col. Bode.

Traffic Deaths Drop During First Quarter

SPRINGFIELD — The State Highway Division has announced Illinois highway traffic deaths dropped 3 per cent in the first quarter of 1954, from 443 killed in the first three months last year to 429 this year. March fatalities were 153 both years.

Girl Violent When Refused Permit To Turn On TV Set

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP) — Knox County Judge Gale T. Mathers today hadn't decided what to do with an 11-year-old girl who became violent because her grandmother refused to allow her to turn on television.

The grandmother refused permission to turn on the television set Tuesday night. Then the girl repeatedly struck her grandmother, who is ill.

Turned on her 10-year-old brother and cut him on the back with a pair of scissors.

Slashed her mother slightly with a knife after the mother took the scissors.

Locked herself in the bathroom until taken out by police who were summoned by her mother.

The girl was taken to the county detention home and after a hearing with members of the family today Mathers ordered her kept there until he makes a decision on her care.

The girl's mother told Mathers the girl last month threw a fork at her, hitting her in the face. Mathers ordered the names of the family kept secret.

Champaign-Urbana Makes Application As AF Academy Site

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — A formal application by the Champaign-Urbana area as the site for the new Air Force Academy was flown to Washington, D. C., today.

The petition, directed to Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott, listed more than a dozen advantages in locating the academy here, close to the facilities of the University of Illinois and Chanute Air Force Base.

It pointed out that Gov. William G. Stratton had indicated his interest and the interest to the people of Illinois in seeking location of the site here.

"As the Air Force Academy is constructed the program of the institution could be moved progressively from the existing facilities of the university and Chanute Air Force Base to the new buildings and equipment as they are completed and installed.

Signers of the application were M. G. Snyder, president of the Champaign Chamber of Commerce; Mark B. Brown, president of the Urbana Association of Commerce; and Marc C. Norton, chairman of a joint University-Community Relations committee.

Labor Dep't Begins Study of Causes Of Unemployment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has launched a study of causes of unemployment that it says should produce information of "great value" to labor and industry.

Secretary James P. Mitchell announced the project Tuesday night after the government reported industrial production continued to decline in January, February and March in factories making such items as radios and refrigerators.

Mitchell said the unemployment study is being made by a seven-man committee of department officials, headed by Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics.

The committee has held one meeting and has not yet decided on its fact-finding plans, a department official said. But it is expected to consult with employers and labor unions on the jobless situation.

Mitchell said the Labor Department "does not propose to make any recommendations about employment stabilization at this time." But an official said the committee may see fit later to make recommendations on how to keep employment better balanced.

Four cats moved unwillingly from their station by the front door to let Mark Richards push the bell. Vern Bruce opened it, and the cats rushed in, nearly upsetting Mark in their dash.

"You're late," Bruce said sternly. It took a moment for the two men to realize he was speaking not to them but to the cats. "Whole routine upset. Come in, cats, and get your breakfast."

It seemed to Jim that the invitation or order was completely unnecessary, since the cats were already parading through the front room to the small kitchen.

Vern Bruce led them farther into the room. "Sit down, please. I take it I was right about trouble at Mansfield's? Noticed considerable activity over there. Ambulance too, wasn't there?"

Mark said, "I think you're in trouble, Bruce. Just how much, I don't know as yet."

"Well, trouble, and I am no strangers. But, I don't see why this is anything to me. In the way of trouble, I mean. Unless doing your civic duty gets one in trouble."

"Gaylord Mansfield was shot earlier this morning. Shot twice. He's in critical condition."

"That so? I thought I heard a couple of shots. Matter of fact that's what got me up. I thought my next-door friend was shooting at my cats."

"You admit hearing the shots now?"

"I heard something. I went to see."

"Has your neighbor shot at your cats before?"

"No. Not that I know about for sure. Matter of fact, Mansfield is more of the poison type. He scattered stuff around his yard. But the cats are pretty smart that way. At least my cats are. No, I don't even know that Mansfield had a gun."

"How about you?"

"Nope. Don't use them." He said it in the same way a non-smoker refuses a cigarette.

"I want to search your house," Richards said. "I'll get a warrant if you insist."

"Search away," Bruce said. "I'd appreciate it though if you'd leave the kitchen to the last. Until Tardy, Leppy, Nephew and Snowface get through breakfast."

Jim sat on the davenport, watched the search without great expectations. Something in Vern Bruce's manner spoke clearly of assurance if not of innocence.

"You mentioned your cat Leppy before this morning."

"Yes. Leppy's short for Leprechaun. Born on St. Patrick's day. Five years ago."

"He's the one Mansfield wanted to borrow?"

Vern Bruce's whole face hardened. He took off his fancy bifocals, and cleaned their lenses on the tail of his shirt pulled from the top of his pants. When he finally spoke, his voice was controlled, normal. "That's right."

"What sort of an experiment was it?" Jim insisted. "Or didn't he tell you?"

"He told me all right. He told me, and he showed me the rig he'd made. We were still speaking then—or at least I was speaking. He's made some sort of a fancy maze, a series of wire tunnels with wide passages. The whole thing about 20 feet long. Lots of work. His idea was to put Leppy in one end and some food at the other. Then he'd see how long it would take the cat to get to the food without making errors and getting into side passages. He had a bunch of wires rigged up, so Leppy would get a shock every time he took a wrong turn."

"And you refused?"

Vern Bruce smiled, and another scar line in his left cheek appeared. "I told Mansfield I'd build a little bigger maze and start him off at one end. In fact, I even offered to squeeze him into the end of the maze he'd already built."

"Did he get angry?"

Bruce rubbed his jaw. "No. I can't say he did. Actually, I'd say he was surprised more than anything. I honestly don't believe he knew what I was making a fuss about. To him, Leppy was just something handy he wanted to borrow. No doubt he'd have been sporting enough to replace Leppy if he'd been damaged."

"Is Mansfield interested in psychology?"

"Hard to tell. His main interest is his writing. What he wrote, I don't know. I do know I've never seen anything of his published. And he stopped sending out manuscripts the last few years. Got tired of the postman making cracks about his getting them back, I guess."

"The postman? That'd be Elmer Thorpe?"

"You know Elmer? I used to hear him joshing Mansfield about his rejections."

"Did he ever talk to you much?"

"Talk? Oh, I see what you mean. Not even when he wanted to borrow Leppy. He had the whole thing written out."

Mark Richards came in through the kitchen carrying the huge ball of heavy twine. "You said this was yours?"

"Said it looks like one of mine," Bruce agreed.

"Any idea why it should have been lying in the path where we found it?"

"Nope. Not unless somebody put it there."

"Maybe you better get your hat and coat and come down to headquarters with us."

Vern Bruce sat still. "Get a man here who likes cats to take care of my friends, and I don't mind."

"And if I don't?"

"Then you're the one who has trouble," Vern Bruce said simply. He waited a moment, and then went on placatingly. "Why can't we do our talking here? Save trouble for both of us."

versionary move in an attempt to get out of the hearing. He predicted McCarthy would not repeat it without senatorial immunity.

Decision For Committee

"Senator McCarthy is a liar, but not a very clever liar," Hensel said.

Acting Subcommittee Chairman Karl E. Mundt (RSD) has insisted from the outset that the investigation should deal only with issues directly related to the Army's charges and the reply of the McCarthy side to them.

He declined to comment immediately on whether he considers the Hensel allegations relevant to the inquiry. McCarthy claims they are designed to show motivation for the Army's attempt "to discredit the subcommittee" but if the issue is raised formally it will have to be decided by a majority subcommittee vote.

The Army has accused McCarthy and his subcommittee counsel, Roy M. Cohn, of applying "improper" pressure to get favored treatment for a drafted aide, Pvt. G. David Schine. McCarthy counter-charged that the Army tried to blackmail him out of investigating alleged Reds in service.

Soviet Budget

Earmarks $25

Billion for Defense

MOSCOW (AP)—Finance Minister Arseni G. Zverev presented a record 571,800,000 ruble ($142,950,000,000) budget to the Supreme Soviet for 1954 today but the amount allotted to defense was 9 per cent below the 1953 figure.

Zverev said the defense allotment of 100,200,000 rubles ($25,050,000,000) represented 17.8 per cent of the total budget, compared with approximately 20 per cent in 1953.

The size of the Russian budget greatly exceeded the $65,570,000,000 figure recommended by President Eisenhower for the United States in fiscal 1954, but $44,860,000,000 was earmarked for national security.

Preparations were being completed today for the home show and fashion event, "Eldorado on Parade," to be staged in the Methodist Education building in Eldorado Friday and Saturday.

D. A. R. members also will serve as hostesses, welcoming the persons who attend.

Climaxing the two-day affair will be the style show. The two flower clubs of Eldorado will furnish arrangements of spring flowers for the building and the tables on the main floor.

Announce New System
For Distribution
Of Gamma Globulin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Public Health Service has announced a new system for distributing gamma globulin for use against polio this year.

A spokesman said the new rules give state health officers more leeway than last year in deciding where to use the polio-resisting product of human blood.

Government officials said enough gamma globulin for about 1,900,000 doses will be available this year, about twice as much as last year.

It will be used only for group inoculations such as neighborhoods, apartment houses, housing projects, schools, camps, or an entire community. Each state health officer will determine what constitutes a group.

Someone's old hound has been running around in this community making itself at home with the chickens. It would be a good policy to keep such dogs up.

Phillip DeVous was elected president of the Village Board at a special election held yesterday in Equality. An extremely light vote was recorded with only 39 persons voting.

The election was held to name a president and three trustees for the Village Board. There was only one slate of candidates.

Others elected to serve on the board were Guy Malin, Edward Hines and Harry Naas. Members named in the general election a year ago and still serving as part of the seven-man board are Kenneth Milligan, T. Y. Williams Sr. and Joe DeVous.

Phillip DeVous became acting president of the board some six months ago when B. F. Burroughs, president, moved to California.

Since last year's general election, one member, L. S. Barnett, has passed away, and another, Graydon Goodwin, has resigned. The three trustees elected were to fill these vacancies, plus the one created by Phillip DeVous' elevation to the presidency.

Bull Dogs Victims Of Three Double, One Triple Plays

The Harrisburg Bull Dog nine, victim of three double plays and a game-ending triple play, were blanked at West Frankfort, 3 to 0, yesterday afternoon.

The locals got four hits off Raubach, Red Bird hurler, and Darrel Powell and Don Beal of the Bull Dogs allowed but three. However, when the Harrisburg crew got a scoring chance, it would be erased, and the locals lost their first game of the season after winning three.

The triple play that ended the game came like this. Jim Alexander was on first base and Wayman Hefner on second and Tom Golden was at the plate. A bunt was signalled and Golden bunted it, right on a line to Raubach. The ball was thrown to first and second doubling Alexander and Hefner, who were running.

Ken Dunn got two of the four local hits. Jim Cummins got one and Alexander one.

Coach Lawrence Caluffetti used the following players: Cummins ss, Dunn 2b, Russ McDowell 3b, Ed Miller 1b, Hefner cf, Alexander rf, Golden lf, Ronnie Bean c and Powell and Beal p.

Tonight the locals play at Galatia in a tilt slated for 4 p. m. Galatia, West Frankfort and Ridgway are the three teams that Harrisburg has beaten this year. Caluffetti probably will start a freshman hurler, Bill Henshaw, with Everett Evans, southpaw sophomore, in reserve.

Friday afternoon McLeansboro will play here.

CBS to Televis Kentucky Derby

NEW YORK — This year's Kentucky Derby will be televised and broadcast nationally by the Columbia Broadcasting System, May 1, the network announced Tuesday, beginning between 5:15 and 5:45 p. m. EDT.

Tulane Shellacks Illinois, 16-2

By United Press

Tulane surprised last year's Big Ten co-champion Illinois Tuesday with a 16-2 shellacking that marked the conference's only loss in four games with non-conference foes.

Tulane slammed 12 hits off three Illini pitchers while Jack Campione went the distance for the South-erners on a yield of only four safeties.

Purdue served notice it will be hard to handle when the regular conference season gets under way with a 5-2 win over neighboring Butler. The Boilermakers bunched 10 hits for all their runs in the second and third innings to cement the win.

Don Barton hurled the distance for Purdue, giving up four hits. Joe Sesson poled a homer and a single to lead Purdue to its fifth straight win after an opening game loss to Bradley.

Indiana found no trouble winning two games from tiny Han-over College, 9-0 and 22-1. The first game was a pitching triumph for sophomore Stan Denny, who allowed only one hit and faced only 29 batters.

Paul Ebert, Ohio State's basket-ball center, showed he has lost none of last season's effectiveness as he limited Western Michigan to four hits on the way to a 3-2 win. Ebert, who hurled another four hit in his last start, struck out 14 men, making his total for the last two games 28 whiff victims.

Jones Meets Gil Turner Tonight In 10-Round Bout

PHILADELPHIA — Plodding Bobby Jones meets ranked middle-weight Gil Turner of Philadelphia in a 10-round rematch tonight but the Oakland, Calif., veteran again will be the underdog despite an upset triumph in their previous bout.

Jones, a 29-year old campaigner looking for a place in the middle-weight sun, surprised his younger opponent and a nationwide TV and radio audience by punching out an eyelash, 10-round decision as a 4-1 outsider six weeks ago.

The only consoling feature about Jones' being an underdog a second time is that the odds against him have been shaved to 2-1. The bout will be televised and broadcast.

The odds-makers expect a trim, 23-year old Turner, who yearns to return to the welterweight division, to even the score with the wily Jones, father of four children.

Wilson Steps Down as Marion Basketball Coach

MARION, Ill. — Virgil Wilson, head basketball coach at Marion High School for 15 years, Tuesday night stepped down as athletic and physical education director of Williamson County School Unit 2.

Wilson, who took teams to the state tournament at Champaign in 1946, 1948 and 1951, asked to be relieved of his coaching job. The state superintendent of public instruction office recommended establishment of the new post in which Wilson will coordinate all athletic and physical education activities in Unit 2.

Wilson's teams won 201 games while losing 164 and all of his teams reached regional tournament finals, winning 9 regionals and 3 sectionals.

Cliff Storme, who had been freshman-sophomore basketball coach, was named to succeed Wilson. He had been on the Marion coaching staff since 1946 and will be succeeded by Clay Hunter, who came here a year ago as assistant in all sports.

Housewife to Umpire GOP-Demo Congress Game

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — A beautiful housewife tonight will umpire the most mixed-up baseball game since the Brooklyn Dodgers had two men on third.

It's the annual Sunshine Game between the Democrats and Republicans. Both teams are in top physical condition after setting in a total of about three hours of "spring training" in the last three days.

Democratic Manager A. S. (Syd) Herlong of Leesburg, Fla., threw a psychological curve at the GOP at the last minute when he named his starting lineup. He put Rep. Gene McCarthy (D-Minn.) in as cleanup man.

"When the Republicans hear the loudspeaker sound the name of McCarthy," he said, "they'll be so divided they won't know who's at bat."

Republican Manager C. W. (Runt) Bishop of Illinois took it calmly. He named Rep. Glenn (Iron Man) Davis (R-Wis.) to start on the mound and Rep. Sam Coon (R-Ore.) as catcher.

Democrat Don Wheeler of Alma, Ga., will start on the mound for the Democrats but Herlong had to find a new catcher at the last minute. Rep. Phil Landrum (D-Ga.) wired he couldn't make it, so Herlong dragged protesting Tom Abernethy of Mississippi to the spot behind the plate.

Umpire-in-chief will be Mrs. Erna Snyder of Kutztown, Pa., the reigning "Mrs. America." Special guests at the ball game will be 50 beautiful candidates for the 1954 "Mrs. America" contest.

Ridgway Routs Galatia, 16-6

Ridgway staged two big innings yesterday afternoon to rout Galatia's baseball nine, 16-6, in a tussle played at Galatia. The Eagles piled up 13 of their 16 runs in the second and fifth innings.

Hise and Mills shared the mound chores for Ridgway with Orto and Imboden dividing the pitching duties for Galatia.

Ridgway scored twice in the first six in the second and added another in the third before being blanked in the fourth stanza. Galatia managed to stay within striking distances of the Eagles, as they counted once in the first and four times in the second. They collected their final marker in the fourth, reducing Ridgway's lead to 9-6 at one time.

The Eagles, however, went on the rampage again in the fifth to pile up seven more runs and their 16-6 margin.

Galatia entertained Harrisburg this afternoon and will be host to Equality next Tuesday.

Equality Edges Shawneetown, 3-2

Scoring three runs in the last of the seventh, Equality's Cardinals edged Shawneetown, 3-2, yesterday afternoon for their first victory of the year. The game was played on Equality's new baseball diamond.

Shawneetown's ace hurler, Garrison Newsom, had handcuffed the Cards with one hit until the fateful seventh. A single, four walks and a hit batsman brought the Equality nine their three runs and victory. Shawneetown had defeated the Cards only last week, 4-0.

It was Equality's first triumph in five outings this spring. The Indians scored in the first and again in the third. Kaufmann and Frohock hurled for the host club, giving up three hits. They allowed seven walks.

Equality will entertain Ridgway Thursday afternoon and then takes on Galatia on the Bearcat diamond next Tuesday.

Kellner Hurls One-Hitter As A's Blank Senators, 7-0; Reds Beat Cardinals, 13-6

By JOHN GRIFFIN

United Press Sports Writer
Alex Kellner was named in honor of Cleveland Alexander, and it looks like he may have inherited the "no hit jinx" which plagued that immortal pitcher.

Certainly there seemed to be a fate working against the crafty Kellner Tuesday night when he allowed only an eighth-inning, two-out single by weak-hitting Wayne Terwilliger in hurling the Philadelphia Athletics to a 7-0 triumph over the Senators under the arc lights in Washington.

The great Alexander, National league pitching star of the '10's and '20's, reaped just about every kind of baseball glory there is except a no-hitter. "Old Pete" hurled one-hitters galore; in fact, in 1915 alone he tossed four of them for an all-time record. But always the elusive no-hitter slipped through his fingers.

Hit Fast Ball

Southpaw Kellner was on the verge of succeeding where the great Alexander failed when Terwilliger, only a 252 hitter last season and the No. 8 batter in the Senators' lineup, came to the plate in the eighth.

With the count two balls and one strike, Terwilliger stepped into a fast ball and lashed it cleanly into center field for a single.

"Being behind in the count is what probably ruined me," said Kellner. "I tried to come across with the fast one and he powdered it."

Kellner got the next batter to hit into a forceout and thus salvaged the distinction of not allowing a single Senators' runner to reach second base. He walked three batters and struck out six.

Reds Outslug Cardinals, 13-6

Vic Power, Negro outfielder obtained from the Yankees during the winter, led the Athletics' 11-hit assault on four Washington pitchers with a pair of doubles that drove in four runs. Chuck Stobbs was the starter and loser for the Senators.

In other night games, the Philadelphia Phils whipped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-3, and the Cincinnati Reds outslugged the St. Louis Cards, 13-6, leaving the Phils and Reds tied for first place in the National league. In day games, the New York Giants downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Detroit Tigers, 7-2. The Braves and Cubs were rained out and the other clubs were not scheduled.

Murry Dickson, age 37, gained his second win for the Phils despite surrendering bases-empty homers to Gil Hodges and Pee Wee Reese. Preacher Roe, age 38, started for the Dodgers, gave up three runs in the third and was kayoed by Del Ennis' two-run homer in the fifth that proved the deciding margin.

Wally Moon Homers
Andy Seminick, Gus Bell, and Wally Post pounded homers for the Reds in their 16-hit attack on four Cardinals pitchers. Rookie Wally Moon homered for the Cards, but Red reliever Joe Nuxhall easily gained his second win.

Southpaw Johnny Antonelli survived his own wildness and a line drive rapped off his ribs by rookie Bob Skinner to beat the Pirates. The Giants backed him up with a balanced 11-hit attack.

Virgil Trucks, the White Sox' 20-game winner last season, pitched a six-hitter for his first win and Chicago's fourth straight. His 12-hit batting support was led by Nellie Fox, who cracked three singles and drove in two runs.

Tuesday's star: Alex Kellner of the Athletics, who gave up only one hit in shutting out the Washington Senators, 7-0.
